Assembled four legs with one actuated; walking control is in development with the team's lead programmer